Page 1 paragraph 1. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 1 paragraph 2. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 1 paragraph 3. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 1 paragraph 4. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 1 paragraph 5. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 1 paragraph 6. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 1 paragraph 7. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 1 paragraph 8. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 1 paragraph 9. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 1 paragraph 10. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 1 paragraph 11. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 1 paragraph 12. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 2 paragraph 1. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 2 paragraph 2. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 2 paragraph 3. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 2 paragraph 4. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 2 paragraph 5. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 2 paragraph 6. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 2 paragraph 7. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 2 paragraph 8. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 2 paragraph 9. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 2 paragraph 10. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 2 paragraph 11. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 2 paragraph 12. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 3 paragraph 1. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 3 paragraph 2. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 3 paragraph 3. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 3 paragraph 4. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 3 paragraph 5. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 3 paragraph 6. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 3 paragraph 7. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 3 paragraph 8. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 3 paragraph 9. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 3 paragraph 10. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 3 paragraph 11. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.

Page 3 paragraph 12. The morning light came slowly over the hills, and the village woke one window at a time. Bakers lit their ovens, children argued about shoes, and the river kept its own patient count.